ABOUT

ABOUT NIKE

Born on April 11, 1967, in Ibadan, Nigeria, she was raised by Professor Gabriel and Princess Aderonke Ogunmola, who instilled in her the values of hard work, integrity, and compassion.

Nike Adeyemi holds Master's degrees in Architecture and Business Administration from Obafemi Awolowo University (OAU), Nigeria, and Business Studies from the Netherlands. She has also completed the Executive Program at Harvard Business School and is a John Maxwell Certified Coach. Additionally, she holds dual doctorate degrees: a Doctor of Divinity and a Doctor of Social Services and Faith-Based Initiatives from Heart Bible International University, U.S.A.

A highly sought-after speaker, conference host, and author, she has written several bestselling books, including "The Shift At The Well" and "Love Code." She serves as the Deputy Senior Pastor at Daystar Christian Centre, which she co-founded with her husband, Pastor Sam Adeyemi, in 1995. Nike Adeyemi is the Founder and President of the Women of Destiny Fellowship at Daystar and Real Women International Inc., Atlanta, Georgia, a motivational and healing ministry for women. She is on the faculty of Daystar Leadership Academy. She also hosts television and digital programs, including "Real Woman with Nike," which reaches local and global audiences, the "Conversations with Nike" podcast, and the annual "Breathe Retreat with Nike."

She is married to Pastor Sam Adeyemi, and they have three children. Through her ministry and humanitarian services, she has significantly impacted her community and beyond. She founded the Love Home Orphanage, which provides shelter and care for abandoned children. Additionally, she offers coaching services to support individuals in their personal and spiritual development. Her dedicated efforts in empowering women, supporting families, and inspiring leaders have earned her numerous awards and recognitions.
